THE DRY CREEK TRAGEDY.

The recent murder of the Wick-ershams, husband and wife, on Dry Creek, in this county, by a Chinese domestic, is one of the most diabolical and dastardly that has ever occurred in the annals of this State. It has sent a thrill of horror throughout the whole country "at the deep damnation of their taking off," and heaven is crying aloud for vengeance against the fiend incarnate who committed the horrible deed. There seems to be no doubt existing in the minds of the detectives who are working the case up that the murderer will eventually be hunted down and brought to justice. And let us hope that it will be so.

The motive of the murder was evidently the outrage of Mrs. Wick-ershams. The scene of the tragedy was a lonely, inaccessible, out-of-the-way place and the fiend, after deliberately killing her husband, followed Mrs. Wickersham to her room, whither she had in terror taken refuge, and despite her pleading looks and heart-melting supplications, seized his victim, bound her with a stout rope to the bedstead and meeting with that resistance which only a terrified woman in her position could command, he evidently beat her insensible, accomplished his hellish purpose and then deliberately shot her to death that there might be no living witness to his dastardly crime. Leaving his victims weltering in pools of blood the murderer and ravisher turned his back on the scene, which in a few short moments had been transposed from pleasant surroundings to one of horror and bloodshed, and precipitately fled and is now supposed to be well on his way to Hongkong.

This terrible and diabolical deed should act as a warning to all those who are now employing Chinese domestics. There are many such in this valley and to keep them longer in their employ will be simply inviting upon their own heads the doom that sealed the fate of the unfortunate victims of the Dry Creek tragedy.

SOMETHING FOR OUR PEOPLE TO PONDER OVER.

In this town there are three Chinese wash-houses giving employment to about forty mongols. These are patronized by almost every family and single man in Sonoma and its suburbs. The washing of our people is not given out to Chinese laundrymen through choice but simply for the reason that there is no one else to do it. The amount of money paid to these three wash-houses mentioned above is in round figures more than FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS per month or SIX THOUSAND DOLLARS a year. Of this sum, we will venture to say without fear of contradiction, not one-twentieth is again put in circulation in this town. Why? We answer, because the "little brown man" does not patronize our merchants, hotels, stationary stores, butcher shops, saloons or blacksmith shops. Neither does he contribute to the support of our churches, build houses or encourage our public schools. In short he has nothing in common with the interests of civilized people. He is here to make all the money he can and spend as little as possible, and the Sonoma Chinese laundryman is no exception to the rule. This being so, we submit that it is high time that he be boycotted out of the town.

Our leading citizens have taken this matter in hand, and a mass meeting is called for Monday evening next to devise ways and means for the establishment in Sonoma of a white labor steam laundry. Such an enterprise would give employment to quite a number of white men and women, who being patronized by our people, would in turn spend their earnings among our merchants and tradespeople and the $6,000 a year which is now lost to the town through the medium of Chinese laundries would find its way back into the channels of trade. Let all encourage this laudable object.

SILVER AS MONEY.

The great question, next to the protective tariff, now before the country for solution is that of the silver dollar as a circulating medium and standard of values. This question is being considered and discussed by the greatest minds of the United States, and the leading countries of Europe as well; by legislative bodies and the public press. It is a notable fact that representatives hailing from the great money centers of the world—bankers, capitalists and money-lenders—favor gold as the sole standard of value and the basis of a circulating medium as a legal tender for debts, while we find arrayed against them the laboring people, who constitute the debtor classes, favoring a double standard consisting of gold and silver coin, either of which shall be a legal tender for debts, dues or demands, public and private. Thus it is observable that the "dollar of our daddies" is the working people's money, while "yellow bugs"—the gold coins of the world—are the favorites of the opulent and aristocratic, who hoard gold in large sums and use it only when large profits can be made by dealing it out to the needy in exchange for property at reduced rates, thus forever enabling greedy capitalists to suck the life-blood from industry and subject the millions who earn their living by honest labor to a dependent condition bordering upon slavery.

In addition to depressing values of property held by the debtor classes the demonitizing of silver and establishing gold coin as the only standard of value must necessarily result in discouraging the silver mining interests of the Pacific Slope States and Territories, which have become the silver producing districts of the world, now giving profitable employment to many hundreds of thousands of hardy miners, and at the same time affording a ready market for the products of other hundreds of thousands of agriculturists, manufacturers, traders, etc., throughout the entire catalogue of industrial pursuits. And when we take into consideration the fact that the silver regions of the Pacific Slope now being developed, and the large scope of country dependent upon the silver industry for a market for products, constitute about one-eighth of the territory of the Union, leaving out Alaska, we begin to realize the vast importance of the silver question and the great damage that must necessarily result to the country by discouraging silver mining and depressing trade and values of property by stopping the coinage of silver.

We are pleased to see the Pacific States delegations in both Houses of Congress acting in concert upon this question and also upon the Chinese and tariff issues, as upon proper legislation on these matters the people of California, Oregon, Nevada and the Territories of the western slope depend in a great measure for their future prosperity. Our wine, silver, wool, coal, iron, fruit and manufacturing interests need fostering while yet in their infancy, to enable our people to prosper while developing the varied resources of the country, and any tinkering with the tariff laws or the law regulating the coinage of silver dollars will jeopardize our prosperity, depress trade and check our growth for a long term of years.

THE COUNTRY PRESS.

The "Alta-California," in a recent issue speaks thus kindly of the local newspaper: "The country press makes the unstudied and truthful record of the progress of those rural interests which are the dependence of California. Mortar may wed brick to brick in the city in vain if there be not enough rural homes, and acres responsive to seed time and harvest, and honest, toiling hands to support the city's commerce and enlarge its exchanges which we call trade. Read and pay for the 'Alta,' if you can, but support your local paper you must, if you would find the four-leaved clover. If your vines bear well, your wheat is generous in yield, your trees are loaded with fruit, your stock fattens in the field and the milky mothers of your herd fill the foamy pail, it is the local paper makes a note of it to spur the ambition of your neighbor, and set him hunting for the four-leaved clover. So the general industry is urged forward and the common wealth accumulates."

MASS MEETING.

By reference to another column it will be seen that a mass meeting is called at the City Pavilion on Monday next, for the purpose of discussing the most practical means of dispensing with Chinese labor in this community in general and the establishment of a white labor laundry in particular. The people of the Sonoma Valley are, as a general rule, a very practical and conservative class and we have no hesitancy in asserting that no incendiary talk will be indulged in. The meeting is called by our most substantial people, embracing all professions, trades and occupations. It will be presided over by Col. Robt. Howe, one of the most prominent and wealthy farmers of the Sonoma Valley. This move is a wise one and we have no doubt but that ways and means will be devised to eventually rid the town of the Chinese element without resorting to violent or unlawful means. This is a matter which concerns every one in this community. If the object of the meeting is a success and the Chinese of the town and valley are compelled to give way to people of our own race, Sonoma will experience a business boom that will be of lasting benefit to the merchant, farmer, mechanic and laboring man. Therefore, we say, let all who have the interests of this valley at heart attend the meeting and encourage by every means possible the end sought to be attained.

MAKE IT THOROUGH.

Would it not be well for the State Labor Commissioner to make his investigation of the Chinese labor question thorough while he is about it so as to cover the Chinese labor on his ranch in this valley.

CAPTAIN CRAWFORD and his company of United States troops, while in pursuit of the Apache savage, Geronimo, were fired upon by Mexican troops in Sonora, Mexico, on the 10th inst. The Captain was killed and three of his men wounded. The fire was returned and four Mexicans made to bite the dust. The attack, according to the official account forwarded by Lieutenant Mans to Adjutant-General McKeever, was unwarranted and cowardly, and may lead to an open rupture between the two Governments.

PETALUMA PICKINGS.

[Courier.]

The tramps are becoming quite bold in this city. Last Sunday night two of them followed James O'Neil to his home on the hill, and had he not made special efforts to avoid them would have stood him up.

Last Friday morning about 4 o'clock, L. Chopard, a jeweller of this city, discovered a man in his room. As he rose up and got out of bed the burglar, a tall man, made a dive for the bath room, the door of which Chopard locked. Believing his prisoner safe, he proceeded to light his lamp and get ready for the captive. However, when he got all ready, on opening the door he found the burglar had opened a window and slid down from the veranda to the ground and skipped, taking with him Mr. Chopard's gold watch and chain, coat, vest and pants.

A large and enthusiastic anti-Chinese meeting was held at the Petaluma Theatre last Monday night. Edward Rodgers called the meeting to order and nominated Prof. Burnett for Chairman. The President made a happy and sensible speech. Messrs. M. E. C. Mun-dey, F. W. Shattuck, J. H. McNabb, Frank Ennis and Hopkins were then called upon and made short speeches. On motion the President was then authorized to appoint a committee of ten persons, tax payers, to consider the whole question and report at a meeting of citizens to be called ten days hence. The following are the committee: J. H. McNabb, L. Ellsworth, Frank Fairbanks, Wm. Zartman, C. L. Torr, Arthur Whitman, E. Rodgers, M. Walsh, C. Temple, J. L. Dinwiddie, John Van Doren.

Installations.

The following officers of Pueblo Lodge, No. 168, A. O. U. W., were installed last Tuesday evening for the ensuing term by D. D. G. M., L. Ellsworth of Paluma: Geo. A. Batchelder, P. M. W.; W. P. Wilson, M. W.; J. Fochetti, F.; P. L. McGill, O.; Dr. E. S. Hayward, R.; R. B. Lyon, Receiver; G. A. Batchelder, Financier; A. F. Haggood, Guide; H. Raschen, I. W.; L. Heydt, O. W.

On Thursday of last week the following were installed as officers of Bear Flag Lodge, No. 97, K. of P.: E. S. Hayward, P. O.; Wm. Trudgen, C. C.; F. Ehrlich, V. C.; H. J. Wilson, Prelate; H. C. Manuel, J. of E.; H. Raschen, M. of P.; W. Stone, K. of R. and S.; Wm. Booth, M. of A.; J. T. Fothergill, I. G.; S. Canditi, O. G. The following officers conducted the installation ceremonies: Grand District Deputy Geo. Hall, Grand Prelate R. Ross, Grand Master at Arms McGregor, Grand K. of R. S. McGeorge and Grand V. C. McGregor.

Clay Literary Society.

The attendance at Clay Literary Society was quite large last Monday evening. Those present were quite agreeably entertained by vocal and instrumental music and a most interesting debate, which was participated in by Messrs. Campbell, Wilkoff, McTaggart, McMahon and others, the question being, Resolved, "That high license is beneficial to society." The remarks of the above gentlemen were listened to with attention and each handled the subject with consummate skill. Upon being put to a vote the house decided in favor of the affirmative. Next Monday evening the members and visitors will be entertained by Dr. McMahon and L. Breitenbach.

Chinese Discharged.

We are informed that M. K. Cady has discharged all Chinamen from his employ and that hereafter only white men will be engaged in working his vineyard and in the management of his hotel. Kohler & Frohling have also discharged all Chinese and in the future their extensive vineyards and wine cellars will be run by white labor exclusively. This is the true way to solve the Chinese problem, for if we will all withhold from them our patronage and refuse to give them employment they will soon go from necessity and of their own accord.

A Walking Skeleton.

Mr. E. Springer of Mechanicsburg, Pa., writes: "I was afflicted with lung fever and abscess on lungs, and reduced to a walking skeleton. Got a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which did me so much good that I bought a dollar bottle. After using three bottles, found myself once more a man, completely restored to health, with a hearty appetite, and a gain in flesh of 48 lbs." Call at any Drug Store and get a free trial bottle of this certain cure for all Lung Diseases. Large bottles $1.00.

GLEN ELLEN ETCHINGS.

Miss Maria Guerne of Santa Rosa, is visiting Miss Lucy Zane of this place.

J. K. Lattrell's barn blew over during the storm of last Tuesday night.

The late storm, although a severe one, done very little damage in this section.

We hear that our "Deestrick" school will not begin operations until May next.

Salmon are plentiful in Sonoma creek and can be seen in large numbers every day.

Mr. John Gibson, who has been quite ill, has, we are glad to say, entirely recovered.

Owing to the condition of the weather, pruning and plowing have been entirely suspended, but will be renewed again as soon as the weather permits.

One end of the bridge belonging to Mrs. Guerne was precipitated into the bottom of the creek during the late storm, caused by the washing away of the abutment.

Pat. McAndrews, in his ramble and hunt "over the hills and far away," resulted in sure death to one robin, one squirrel and one owl. We suppose, however, its "owl" right.

Mr. T. J. Sullivan, who some time ago unfortunately fractured his leg, has almost recovered. Some of the children of Mr. Sullivan were last week confined to their beds by sickness, but we are glad to say have all recovered and are entirely out of danger.

GLEN ELLEN, Jan. 24, 1886.

Coroner King, who went into the mountains on horseback to hold the inquest on the remains of Captain and Mrs. Wickersham, on his return had his leg lamed by a fall from his horse. We are glad to say he is not seriously injured, and his lameness is much better.—Petaluma Courier.

Work on the sidewalks and roadway of First Street East, which has been suspended several days on account of the late storm, will be resumed again in a few days.

Hunting notices printed at this office.

The American Resisting Vine the Approved Remedy.

Fertilizing Not a Remedy for the Pest—Views of an Intelligent Sonoma Wine-Grower.

ED. INDEX-TRIBUNE: An article has lately been going the rounds of the press to the effect that phylloxera gains a foothold only in exhausted vineyard lands and that fertilizing is the remedy. Now, the intelligent and thinking wine-grower knows, or ought to know, that manure cannot be considered a remedy against phylloxera, as France and Germany, where fertilizers have been used for centuries and where they still continue to manure vineyards every few years, are the very places above all others where the spread of the destroying insect has become most alarming.

Regarding that harping upon shallow soils and exhausted vineyards as the cause of the pest, how is it that the vineyards, young as well as old, in the vicinity of Sonoma with their deep, black, inexhaustible soil are ravaged in as great a degree as are those near the hills with less fertile soil? Why then lead the inexperienced astray when up to the present time no other approved remedy exists but the American resisting vine. The phylloxera is that so much precious time is lost and so much money wasted on so called remedies, which so far have proved ineffective, impracticable and utterly futile. Then, why not try the resisting vine, when cuttings may be had in the Sonoma Valley, Napa, San Jose, Fresno, Natoma and other places at small cost. It is true there has been a cry raised against these vines as a reliable remedy. It has been asserted that they died here and there, but in cases of this kind the vineyardist had obviously neglected to cleanse the grafts from the roots which they develop freely near the surface, and which not only attract the phylloxera again, but also injures the growth of the root system of the resisting stock below.

The alternative is to either retard our vineyard business by vainly hoping and waiting for something happy to turn up against the pest, while feeding a few phylloxera with the same old vines which are doomed even if planted ten feet apart and manured ever so much; or, commence at once to restore your vineyards with the resisting stock, which has been tested and accepted in Europe for the past fifteen years. All who are in doubt may see growing in the Sonoma Valley five-year-old grafted vines thriving and making a good crop of fine wine. J. DRESSEL, SONOMA, Jan. 27, 1886.

SANTA ROSA NEWS.

[Daily Democrat.]

County Treasurer Tupper disbursed $65,000 of the tax-payers' money since the first of January.

During the late storm the distillery belonging to E. W. Davis, on the Yulupa vineyard in Bennett valley, was badly damaged.

W. C. Hill, clerk in Chas. Bane's Great Western Dry Goods House, who underwent a painful surgical operation last Saturday, is rapidly convalescing, and will resume his duties in a few days. Mr. Hill's experience with the knife consisted in having a large tumor taken out of his side.

A lady of Santa Rosa applied to the city authorities Tuesday, for permission to shoot rats with a rifle, around her premises, which are inside the city limits. On being asked if she could take the life of a rat at fifty paces, she answered that she could not, but her sister could blow a humming bird's head off at thirty paces.

Hank Paul, a well-known contractor and builder of this city, left home for San Francisco on the 31st day of December, saying he would return in a few days. A day or two later he was seen by some friends, and told them he was coming home the next day. Since that time he has neither been seen nor heard from, and his friends are at a loss to account for his mysterious disappearance. Every available means have been employed to ascertain his whereabouts without success, and it is now feared that some accident has befallen him.

It has been no secret for several days that a scene occurred in one of the public school rooms in this city several days ago, when Frank Muth, a patron of the school, upbraided Miss Smyth for what he charged was improper treatment of his son. It is charged that Mr. Muth used insulting language to the lady while the school was in session, and in the presence of the children of her room. It is due to all concerned that the matter should be investigated. If Mr. Muth is innocent, he will be vindicated; if he is guilty, he should be punished. The school-room during school hours is no place for such a scene as is reported to have occurred on this occasion, nor can such be permitted without demoralization. It is due to the schools, due to the teacher, due to Mr. Muth, and due to the public that the matter should be thoroughly ventilated.

A NOTABLE BOOK.

Pictorial History, Romance and Philosophy of Celebrated American Criminals.

Among the announcements of new publications for the present season is one embracing the tragedy of American history from the foundation of the Republic to the present day. American history has in every period been distinguished by startling phases. Boldness of conception, breadth of plan, energy of execution, tenacity and courage characterize her annals. These traits are illustrative not only of her laudable achievements and of those who advance her civilization—her commerce, schools, churches—her material, moral and intellectual prosperity, but they characterize as well those whose efforts have been to pull down and destroy. That the latter constitute a material portion of that history—one of necessary instruction and interest to every thoughtful reader and student who would be informed in his country's annals—is a fact which all will recognize. "The proper study of mankind is man," wrote the poet and moralist, Alexander Pope. This work presents man, the most complex of all subjects, in his startling phases, and as a feature of American history, apt in its scope and design, it is absorbing interest. Gibbon picturing truly the crimes, effeminacy and lasciviousness of the later Roman Empire; Gillis pointing out the terrible degeneracy of the demagogues of Athens, and Hume picturing the brutal crimes of England of the 13th, 14th and 15th centuries, performed the part of wise teachers in warning their countrymen against similar lapses from the straight and narrow paths of honor, honesty and truth. In a similar spirit has the author of "History, Romance and Philosophy of Great American Crimes and Criminals" portrayed the typical crimes and criminals of the various eras of our country. The work is in the main biographical, and embraces among others the crimes and conspiracies of John A. Murrel, the great southwestern land pirate; the gigantic schemes of Col. Monro Edwards, the Napoleon of forgers, etc.; the Mountain Meadow massacre; murders and burglaries of Ruloff, the great philologist; the murder of Dr. Parkman by Prof. Webster; the Cunningham-Burdell mystery; the Lowery gang; the swamp angels of North Carolina; the Colt-Adams murder; Hill-Evans feud in Kentucky; career or Cullen Baker, the Arkansas desperado; the Helen Jewett-Frank Rivers murder; Ben Thompson, of Texas, the man slayer; the Bender family, the Kansas fiends; James and Younger brothers, etc., etc. Its pictorial feature is one of more than usual attraction—embracing 161 superb engravings including personal portraits of the celebrated criminals. It is sold by subscription. The canvassing agent for such a work will find the latest string out, and a percentage that will make his business assuredly profitable. Occidental Publishing Co., San Francisco, Cal., are the enterprising publishers. We advertise them in another column.

Percheron Stallions.

During these hard times, when nearly every farm product is so low in price that it hardly seems worth raising, we see many of our most intelligent and progressive farmers, who have not hitherto been interested in horse breeding, buying finely bred high priced Percheron stallions. This to many is a source of astonishment, but is the result of observation that large, well formed active horses always have been, and necessarily must continue to be, in active demand at large prices on account of the scarcity in the United States of suitable stallions for their production, all such having to be imported. The yearly increasing demand for such stallions is the best evidence that such investments are profitable. And to this fact is due the development of large importing and breeding establishments, notably among which and largely exceeding all others is that of Mr. M. W. Dunham's "Oak-lawn Farm," at Wayne, Illinois.

Before you go for an editor, young man, pause and take a big think! Do not rush into the editorial business too hastily. Look around and see if there is not an omnibus or some meat cart to drive, some sort somewhere to be filled, or a clerkship to be filled—anything that is reputable or healthy, rather than going for an editor, which is a bad business at best. We are not a horse, and consequently have not been called upon to furnish the motive power for a threshing machine; but we fancy that the life of an editor who is forced to write whether he feels like it or not, is much like the steed in question. If the yea and neighs could be obtained, we believe that the intelligent horse would decide that the threshing machine was preferable to the sanctum editorial. The editor's work is never done. He is drained incessantly, and no wonder that he dries up prematurely. Other people can attend banquets, weddings, etc., visit halls of dazzling light, get inebriated, break windows and enjoy themselves in a variety of ways, but the editor cannot. He must tenaciously stick to the quill. The press, like a sick baby, must not be left to run itself even for a day, or somebody orders the carrier-boy to stop bringing that wretched paper. "There is nothing in it; I won't have it in the house!"—Ex.

When Baby was sick, we gave her CASTORIA.
When she was a Child, she cried for CASTORIA.
When she became a Girl, she clung to CASTORIA.
When she had Children, she gave them CASTORIA.

MEMOIRS.
When he was a little boy, and eight, his little wife was also; and both were quite content to wait till he was a man should be. They played together as they grew; a truant boy was he. They'd quarrel when the clock was two, and make it up at three.

At fifteen he on girlish boys looks down with scornful mien; and she declines to play with boys at feminine thirteen.

His matrimonial views are cool; at love he gaily sneers; she boasts a dearest friend at school, and daily lengthening frocks!

When twenty sees him quite a man, he blots her name away; she laughs at him behind her fan, and calls him such a boy.

For she has lovers now galore; who smile and favor crave; and he who tyrannized of yore is now her humblest slave!

They now are middle-aged; 'tis said, his chin a beard now covers; and she, to his, a lock of yet, in spite of all her lovers!

But vain for her to sigh for him, for so the story tells; grown weary of caprice and whim, he's married some one else!

—Chambers' Journal.

THE MAN WHO DID HOUSE- WORK.
Translated from the Norwegian, by Nellie V. Anderson.

There was once a man who was cross and peevish, because he thought his wife never did enough in the house.

He came home one evening from the hay field, cursing and scolding, till things seemed to fairly glow around him.

"Dear, don't be so angry," said the woman; "in the morning we will change work. I will go out with the hay workers, and mow, while you do the work at home."

Yes, the man thought this a good idea, and was very willing to show her a thing or two.

So early in the morning the woman took the scythe, and went out in the meadow with the rest, to mow. The man was there to work in the house. First, he made ready to churn; but after churning awhile, feeling very thirsty, he went down cellar to tap some beer. While doing this, he heard the pig in the kitchen. He ran upstairs, leaving the faucet open. At the sight of him the pig ran against the churn with disastrous consequences.

When the man saw this mischief done, and the pig greedily smacking and sipping of the stream that ran over the floor, he was ready to with rage, and completely forgetting the beer-barrel, he punished the pig as best he could. He reached it again in the door, and gave a mighty kick that killed it on the spot.

Now he remembered leaving the faucet open, but on going to the cellar all the beer had run out. He then went to the milk room, and again found enough cream to fill the churn, for butter he must have for dinner. When he had churned awhile he remembered that the cow was yet in the stable, and had received neither bite nor sup, though it was late in the day. Thinking it would take too long to go to the pasture, he concluded to put her on the sod roof, on which grew short green grass. As the hut lay by a steep side hill, he thought by laying a plank from that to the roof, it would be an easy matter to get the cow up. But he dared not leave the churn, for the baby was crawling around on the floor, and might upset it; so he took the churn on his back, thinking he would give the cow some water before putting her on the roof. Leaning down to dip water from the well, down came the contents of the churn deluging his head and neck, then dripping into the well.

It was now near dinner time, and as there was no butter, he thought of cooking mush, and immediately hung a kettle of water over the fire. But now he bethought himself, that the cow might fall off the roof and break her legs, or neck, so he must go up to tie her. One end of the rope he bound around the cow's neck, and dropping the other through the chimney, he went down and tied it around his leg, for the water was boiling in the kettle, and he must make the mush. While doing this the cow fell off the roof and dragged him up the chimney by the rope. There he hung, a prisoner, while the poor cow dangled between heaven and earth, able neither to go up or down.

The wife had waited seven long and broad hours, to be called home to dinner, but no summons came. At last she thought it was too long, and finally went home. Upon seeing the cow hanging in such a remarkable manner, she quickly cut the rope with her scythe. At the same moment the man fell down the chimney, and his wife found him standing on his head in the mush kettle.

Thus ended the woful experience of a man who found fault with his wife; and as this type of the genus homo is not confined to one nation alone, let every man addicted to a similar practice, take a solemn warning.

Don't you keep a young lady pious who has her waist encircled seven times a week by the arms of a spider-legged dude.

True Courtesy.
Many people go mourning all their lives over some personal defect, perhaps in itself slight, but made important to them by careless remarks often not intended unkindly. It may be a cross eye, a wen, a birth-mark, weak eyes, lameness, deafness—anything that makes them a little peculiar, even if not very markedly so. Now if others would but ignore the defect, not question about it, sympathize with it, or remark upon it, the unfortunate one would have nothing to bear but the actual inconvenience, which, whether serious or not, is quite enough.

So don't ask the one-legged or one-armed man where he lost his limb. Don't ask the mother of that epileptic child whether she thinks his mind is much affected yet. Don't offer to read aloud for the weak-eyed one, or press footstools and supports upon the feeble but young-hearted grandparent who tries to think himself as hale as ever. Don't draw your chair close to the partially-deaf friend, put your lips to his ear, draw a long breath, and scream some commonplace remark in a tone that startles him and draws the notice of all present. Neither make bewildering signs and grimaces and mouth your words absurdly, but speak naturally with no apparent effort, slowly, carefully, and only a little louder. A trial or two will enable you to accommodate your voice to his ear, without making you ridiculous and your friend unhappy. Yet do not ignore him because it may require a little pains to make yourself understood; better take a little trouble than to leave him to feel himself neglected or contemned because of his infirmity. This trouble is almost the only one for which there is not usually quick sympathy. People are more apt to be impatient with it, or to laugh at it. Those who would weep to see the blind groping helplessly, laugh at the involuntary mistakes of the deaf. Therefore the blind are usually more happy under their privation than the deaf, because they are not humiliated by contemptuous impatience, or overt ridicule, or cool neglect.

There is no use in saying to them, "You must not mind it." They do mind it, they cannot help "minding" it. We are so constituted that our happiness depends very much on what others think of us. If you have a deformed, shy or peculiar child, do not neglect, scold or discourage him. Give such ones double love, double care; have them cured if possible, at whatever cost of toil or privation. Teach them to be so lovable that their defects may be forgotten. Give them every advantage of society and education in your reach; cultivate whatever special gift, grace, or aptitude they may have; so shall they have confidence and self-respect, and be fitted for useful and happy lives.

Drying Tomatoes.
In Italy an extensive business is carried on in drying tomatoes. They are dried in preference to being canned. The tomatoes are allowed to remain on the vines until they are quite ripe, when they are picked and pressed into bags made of coarse cloth, which allows the pulp to pass through, while the seeds and skins are retained. The pulp is then spread out thinly on cloth, boards or shallow dishes, and exposed in the sun to dry. When it has become quite dry it is broken up into fine or coarse and put into boxes or bags and sent to market. It is largely used in soups, but much of it is employed as we do tomatoes preserved in tins or other cans. When used it is soaked for a few hours in warm water and then cooked in the ordinary manner. This method of preserving this fruit is preferred over on account of the prejudice—well grounded, too—against canned tomatoes—much so prepared being unwholesome.

A Cold Bed.
[Napa Register.]
"It is said" that a resident of the country, living near Napa, came into town Monday and got on a tender. Returning home he became tired and laid down by the wayside near his home. His better half, missing him in the morning, went to look for him. She had not gone far when she beheld his well-known form lying in a ditch and a stream of water trickling past his rosy proboscis. "John," she called. (We'll call him John for short.) "John!" And John recognized the voice and replied, without moving, but with a realization of a chilly sensation as the water stole up his trousers, "Lay over Sal, (hic) yer gettin' all the clo's."

"What shall I say to your wife for you? Don't you wish to send her a last message?" asked the physician.
"No, I guess not," said the dying man. "I wrote to her last."

Has Peters sobered down any since the death of his wife?
"Can't say, I'm sure. The last time I saw him he was sobering up."

A jury of North Lansing, Mich., having been detained a few minutes after 6 o'clock, demanded another half day's pay, whereupon the Judge ordered them locked up in a room during the time required to legally earn the compensation. They suddenly concluded they did not care about it.
